Our lending library of books and media programs is the largest in a public library in the country! With approximately 10,000 items in our collection you can learn about how to communicate with a person who is Deaf or hard of hearing or find materials in an accessible format. The collection is available to meet your information needs whether you are a child or adult, hard of hearing, deaf or hearing.

LSDHH
Rules for Borrowing

To help you select the appropriate book or media program you may search the collection online, call us, or utilize one or more of our resources that have been created for this purpose. Over 70 different subject related bibliographies of books in areas ranging from adaptive technology to Deaf culture to speechreading are available upon request. An Audio/Video Resources Catalog with an equally large subject index includes explanations of each title, length of each program, and whether the program has sound, captions or is signed. The Audio/Video Resources catalog is available in a print format upon request.

A variety of adaptive and notification devices helpful to people who are hard of hearing or deaf are "on display" at the Library Services for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing. Some of these items including a few telephone and communication products and amplification systems are also available for loan.

All materials available for loan (books, media programs, and equipment) may be borrowed for 3-weeks. Nashville residents simply need a Nashville Public Library card while residents of Tennessee living outside of Davidson County may complete an application and have materials mailed directly to them. Please see our Rules for Borrowing.

About Us | History | Contact

History

Watch Video

The Library Services for the Deaf & Hard of Hearing has been in existence on a local level, in Nashville, since August 1978, and statewide in Tennessee since 1983. The initial program, a TTY News Service (1978-2001), provided international, national, state and local news and statewide weather reports to the deaf community. Services expanded to include a small lending library of books and media programs beginning in 1979. Once-a-month open-captioned movies were also shown at the Nashville Public Library Main Library as an initial programming effort during the first couple of years.

Over time, we have expanded programming based on identified needs in the Deaf and hard of hearing communities and with an eye towards educating the hearing public about hearing loss in an effort to eliminate myths and misconceptions about hearing loss. We have evolved to become a premier statewide library program offering a wide array of information, programs, and services to all Tennesseans – free of charge!

Funding has been a concern and a challenge from the outset. Initially, federal LSCA (Library Service and Construction Act) grant funds supported the program. Then, in July 1986 the Tennessee State Legislature approved funding for the program. Additional funds were appropriated in 1993. Federal grant funds administered by the State of Tennessee and community grants have supplemented the program through the years. We gratefully acknowledge continued funding for the Library Services for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing from the Tennessee State Library and Archives, Tennessee Department of State!

The Library Services for the Deaf & Hard of Hearing would not be in existence today without the continued unwavering support of the Nashville Public Library. Although the State of Tennessee funds the program it has always been and continues to be administered by the Nashville Public Library.
