Presented By:
Karin Kalodimos
NAD-IV

Karin is originally from Chicago and a graduate of Harper College ITP program. She began her interpreting career as an educational interpreter at John Hersey High School, where she worked for 13 years. She received her BA degree from Northeastern Illinois University in History and Secondary Education with plans to teach high school history. After moving to Nashville in 1999, reinvigorated by the richness of the Deaf community and interpreting in various settings as a freelancer, she changed her course and chose to remain in the field of interpreting.

She has presented numerous workshops in Illinois and Tennessee, and served on the Boards of TRID and IRID, as co-chair for De'VIA national art competition and exhibit, and several other Deaf-related organizations. Karin is currently an adjunct instructor at Nashville State where she teaches in the ASL interpreting program, a VRS interpreter, and keeps her toes in the water of freelance interpreting... as she can fit it into her busy schedule.

Friday, Sept. 12

6:00p.m.-9:15p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 13

8:30a.m.-5:00p.m.

Beyond The Boundaries: Pigs Can Fly

(1.0 CEU)

If pigs could fly, what would that look like? How does Clark Kent change into Superman? Does a suspension bridge suspend? What about those neurons in our brain...do they look like silly string?

How do we, as interpreters, create an equivalent and dynamic target message from the concrete, abstract, and from something that makes no sense?

We do it with the power of creativity and imagination!

Come learn how to enhance your superpowers. Play games that get those juices flowing, and manipulate language, events, and people in ASL space and on the English tightrope.

Learn how to expand your visual powers to go beyond the linguistic and into the world of imagination. As an added bonus, see how you can use those same superpowers to help your emotional well-being.
