What is this?

Every year, the National Weather Service provides training to the general public on how to identify key severe weather indicators, how to properly report severe weather, and how to stay safe. This training will be geared for those with hearing loss and provide tips and training on how to stay aware of severe weather situations as well as how to report to the weather service without having to use a phone. As part of the training, participants* will have the chance to walk away with a free NOAA All-Hazards Weather Alert Radio with strobe light and pillow shaker attachments!

**Radios limited to Deaf and hard of hearing participants only*

REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED! Visit <http://ow.ly/BfP87> to register!
